

Hello,

I'm Fabrizio Scaglione born in Italy, specifically in Liguria a narrow strip of land between the hills and the sea 36 and something years ago.

I'm an IT Project Manager with a specialization in Healthcare Sciences and an engineer IT background, my expertise is in delivering projects, training, applications' customization and much more.

And ...

... This is the boring part, done and dusted.

My passions are sitting in the outdoor, nature, traditions and sustainability. I'm a passionate hillwalker and bushcrafter.

I'm leading AgriTechLife project where with deep passion for nature and a great respect for the world, we would spread a message of change and improvement. We would involve people in a project for the good of the world, improve themselves, learn from the Earth trying to guide the new generations' hand to the sustainable era.

I've been member of the BMC since 2019, I've started to obtain my MTL qualification however joining meetings and events helped me to grown fond of the association and since 2020 I've the luck of being hill walking representative of London and south east.

March 2020 was a game changer for the entire world, during the last in person event, the hillwalking symposium, I had the opportunity to talk with several members, very passionate of hill walking but with very few chances of going out alone, they were seeking advice and help. I then realized that LSE is a very large pot and we were not able to have a proper feel of what was going on in the field.

I decided to apply the concept of "good technology", dear to me, increasing the social media presence and involving the members with direct polls. Hearing the voice of the people paid out and in October20, when the restrictions eased, I've led a walk with 16+ participant during the Chiltern festival helped by other BMC members due to the stunning high number of participants.

During the last year I've been involved in several meetings and in all of them I've seen people willing to help members and in general the association. Most important all these people want to make the difference, through personal commitment or via BMC's initiatives.

When I've see the proposal for the NEC hill walkers I thought that this is a massive opportunity for all of us hillwalkers. BMC have been traditionally more climbers oriented, we've now the chance to bring up our voice and help our members.

Looking at the bigger picture we can spread the BMC voice in the country promoting our initiatives and a culture of respect and cooperation with the nature.
